PORTS OF CALL

Mossel Bay, South Africa

An endless string of beaches and more than 300 days of sunshine a year make Mossel Bay a popular holiday hotspot and magnet for surfers. The town's Dias Museum offers unique insight into local maritime history as well as a full-size replica of the famed ship, Dias Caravel.

Richards Bay, South Africa

Once a sleepy fishing village, Richards Bay is the thriving economic hub of Northern KwaZulu-Natal. Beneath its bustling, industrial veneer, South Africa's largest harbor town offers scenic wetlands, unspoiled beaches, and a gateway to Zululand, one of Sub-Saharan Africa's most fascinating kingdoms.

Maputo, Mozambique

Intent on recapturing its former glamour, the Pearl of the Indian Ocean once again attracts the rich and famous. Acacia-lined avenues and a lively waterfront draw in visitors from around the world, while tales of the city's poignant colonial history can be found in local museums.

Durban, South Africa

British colonial architecture reigns in Durban, yet natural beauty is what characterizes this delightful city on the Indian Ocean. Its Golden Mile beach area attracts sunbathers, of course, but also shoppers and those who enjoy walking the promenade. The Juma Masjid deserves a visit, as it's the largest mosque in the Southern hemisphere.

East London, South Africa

The nation's only port on a river, East London stretches along the banks of the Buffalo and is revered for its unspoiled beaches. Although links to England are apparent, East London still bears a distinct South African ambience.

Port Elizabeth, South Africa

Described as "the friendly city," P.E.—as it's known by the locals—may be small in size but boasts beautiful beaches and an authentic charm. Central, the old town, is home to well-preserved historic buildings and Parliament Street.

Walvis Bay, Namibia

On the edge of the great Namib Desert and home to an astounding natural lagoon, Walvis Bay claims a resplendent natural backdrop as well as the finest harbor on the Namib coast. Just outside of town is Dune 7, a towering sand dune that rewards climbers with spectacular panoramas.

Cape Town, South Africa

At the foot of majestic Table Mountain, a UNESCO World Heritage Site, lies beautiful Cape Town, a breathtaking city famed for its astounding landscape, historic landmarks, and handsome Cape Dutch architecture.
